1 After considering the written statement, the Securities Administrator makes the following findings of 2 fact and conclusions of law as to Lonepeak Capital, Inc., Visions Investment Group, LLC, and Eric Foster.

3
4 FINDINGS OF FACT

5 Respondents

6 1. Lonepeak Capital, Inc. ("LPC") is a Nevada corporation. During the period relevant to this
7 Final Order, LPC maintained a principal place of business at 814 East Bamberger Drive, Suite C, American
8 Fork, Utah 84003. LPC purports to be in the business of buying and selling distressed real estate.

9 2. Visions Investment Group, LLC ("VIG") is a Utah limited liability company. During the 10 period relevant to this Final Order, VIG maintained a principal place of business at 814 East Bamberger
11 Drive, Suite C, American Fork, Utah 84003 and shared office space and a number of key personnel with 12 LPC.

13 3. Eric Foster ("Foster") is a Utah resident. Foster is president, chief executive officer, and a 14 cofounder of LPC. Foster is also executive vice president of VIG.

15 4. Jonathan Lowry ("Lowry") is a Utah resident. Lowry is a cofounder and vice president of 16 LPC, and president of VIG.

17 5. Byron Workman ("Workman") is believed to be a Utah resident. Workman is an employee of 18 VIG.

19 Nature of the Offering

20 6. Between August 17, 2007 and December 31, 2007, LPC offered $5,000,000 worth of 21 promissory notes valued at $25,000 each. The minimum investment amount was $25,000. LPC reserved the 22 right to offer and sell fractional notes.

1 7. The notes paid an “annual rate of return of 26.4%.” Interest was due and payable quarterly.
2 The notes had twelve month terms. The offering’s proceeds were to be used to purchase distressed real
3 estate.

4 8. According to LPC’s offering materials, the offer and sale of notes were restricted to 5 “accredited investors” as that term is defined in Rule 501(a) of Regulation D. The offering materials further
6 state that LPC was relying upon “the exemption from...registration as set forth in §4(2) and rule 506 of 7 Regulation D of the Securities Act of 1933....”

8 9. Although the introduction of the offering materials say that LPC’s notes were unsecured, the 9 offering materials later state that “all borrowed monies are collateralized against equitable title of a
10 property.” The promissory note described the debt as “senior debt of [LPC].”

11 10. The offering materials advised investors of risks related to LPC’s limited operating history,
12 uncertainty in the market for notes backed by distressed property, risks related to the general economy, and 13 the potential investor’s lack of control of LPC.

14 11. According to LPC’s offering materials, investors purchased notes by delivering checks
15 payable to “Lonepeak Capital,” and returning a completed suitability questionnaire, subscription agreement,
16 and promissory note.

17 Offer and sale to Washington residents

18 12. LPC sold its notes to a Washington couple (“investors A and B”). At the time they purchased
19 an LPC note, investor A was a homemaker with a high school education with no investment experience other
20 than negligible real estate investment experience. Investor B’s investment experience was limited to 21 attending a commercial stock trading course approximately two years before purchasing an LPC note and 22

1 subsequent sporadic stock trading. Neither investor A or B had previously purchased debt securities such as
2 LPC's notes.

3 13. The Washington couple purchased training and access to purportedly proprietary resources to 4 enable them to start a real estate investment business from VIG. According to VIG's website, VIG is an
5 "affiliate" of LPC. VIG assigned Workman to work with the Washington couple as their "Personal Real
6 Estate Investor." In this capacity, Workman was to act as a mentor for the Washington couple as they
7 attempted to establish a real estate investment business. This transaction between VIG and the Washington
8 couple is the subject of Statement of Charges S-11-0577-11-SC01 and Final Order S-11-0577-11-FO01.

9 14. Workman, while working as the couple's mentor on behalf of VIG, offered a note made by 10 LPC as a real estate investment opportunity to the Washington couple. Workman told the Washington couple
11 that LPC had an excellent track record and that LPC had a proven "system" in place for real estate
12 investment. In addition, the Washington couple was promised an interest rate of approximately nineteen
13 percent. Foster and Lowry later called the Washington couple to solicit their investment, explaining that 14 VIG had shared their names and contact information with LPC.

16 15. Foster and Lowry explained that LPC would combine the couple's money with that of three 17 other investors and use the combined funds for one specific real estate investment.

18 16. Foster and Lowry told the Washington couple that they would be paid out of proceeds
19 resulting from the completion of the specific real estate investment to which VIG applied their money.

20 17. Prior to investing, the Washington couple received a confidential private placement
21 memorandum, a document entitled "Subscription Background Information," a subscription agreement, a 22 suitability questionnaire, and a sample promissory note.

1 18. The Washington couple paid $25,000 by wire transfer to LPC.

2 19. Investor A inquired into LPC's condition after LPC had defaulted on the couple's note prior
3 to December 31, 2008. Investor A was told that VIG, not LPC, was pursuing a multitude of options to 4 generate income with which to repay the couple, including a "lead generation" business and hosting
5 webinars.

6 Misrepresentations and Omissions

7 20. LPC did not provide the Washington couple information concerning LPC's financial 8 condition at the time of its offering.

9 21. LPC did not disclose the conflicts of interest created by LPC's status as an affiliate of VIG,
10 and by the substantial sharing of key personnel by the two businesses.

11 22. LPC did not provide the Washington couple material information concerning VIG including,
12 but not limited to, VIG's key personnel and financial condition.

13 23. Workman did not provide information to substantiate his claim that LPC had an excellent
14 track record and a proven "system" in place for real estate development.

15 24. LPC's offering materials do not disclose that it had not filed a Notice of Exempt Offering of 16 Securities with the Securities and Exchange Commission or with the Securities Division.

17 25. LPC's offering materials failed to disclose material, specific information concerning Foster's
18 and Lowry's ability to lead LPC. The offering materials disclose only that Foster is "familiar with various 19 aspects of commercial and residential real estate investing" and that Lowry is "familiar with a broad range,
20 from experience, of commercial and residential real estate investing."
